

TOOLBOX SERIES

Planning for People and Amenities in Transit-Oriented Communities

Puget Sound Regional Council

Planning for People and Amenities in Transit-Oriented Communities

Friday, September 27, 2024

10:00 a.m. – 11:30 a.m. • Virtual – Zoom Webinar

Building a sense of place and community are critical aspects of developing successful transit-oriented neighborhoods. Downtowns, mixed use centers, and transit station areas should be holistic communities that promote social connection, provide civic spaces, and draw in locals and visitors alike.

In this webinar, presenters will highlight work to plan for parks and the public realm, arts and culture, and activate neighborhoods to support people-oriented spaces near transit.

10:00 Welcome and Introductions

- Katie Enders and Liz Underwood-Bultmann, PSRC

10:05 Lynnwood City Center: Planning for Parks and the Public Realm

The presentation will highlight work to add new public spaces and parks, improve cultural attractions, and enhance livability in Lynnwood's City Center

- Sarah Cho, City of Lynnwood

10:30 Metropolitan Area Planning Council's Arts and Planning Toolkit

The presentation will highlight tools and strategies in MAPC's Arts and Planning Toolkit to help planners advance arts and culture as both a catalyst for and an essential component of community development

- Annis Sengupta, Ph.D, Metropolitan Area Planning Council (Boston region)

10:55

Neighborhood Activation: University District Partnership

The presentation will highlight work in Seattle's University District to foster and sustain a vibrant, diverse, and healthy neighborhood through programs, events, policy and advocacy

- Katy Ricchiuto, The U District Partnership

11:20

Final Q&A and Conclusion - Katie Enders, PSRC